BELL TELEPHONE CO. launched a $2,105,000 expansion program at its Stroudsburg central office yesterday when it broke ground for the construction of a new addition facing on S. Seventh St. adjacent to its present building. Cost of project will include installation of dial equipment. Shown breaking first spadeful of dirt is Neal S. Rote, wire chief. Fourth from left is D. P. Rhoads, construction engineer for the contractor, William P. Doall Inc., of Bangor. On hand to witness ceremony were Budd Van Horn, local manager, and representatives of the traffic, commercial and plant departments.

Newfoundland Petition Carries 225 Signatures

NEWFOUNDLAND — There were 225 names of Greentown and Newfoundland residents on a petition now in the hands of Governor George M. Leader, asking for immediate flood relief in the form of action — not promises — in the building of two bridges and in the completion of associated channel work on the East Branch of the Wallenpaupack Creek.

Construction of one of the two bridges has been promised for "early Fall." Under the urging of Mrs. Harry Duecker, who is spearheading the action of area residents, General George J. Richards, deputy secretary of highways, promised that the work would start in "early Summer."

Bangor Lists Real Estate Tax Millage

BANGOR — Borough Council adopted a real estate tax millage of 5.4 mills at its regular meeting last night. It was informed by the Northampton County Tax Assessment Office that Bangor Borough assessment had been officially set at $10,540,900.

In celebration of student government week, representative students of the Bangor Area Joint High School attended the session of Council. Remarks were offered by Bruce Jones and Frank Butz, respectively, the student council president elect and mayor-for-the-day elect.

Chief Burgess Quintus LeBar complimented the work of the Bangor Police Department over the past five weeks in investigating 11 attempted or successful burglaries or robberies which amounted to a net loss of only $75.

LeBar also proclaimed the week of May 19 as General Spring Cleanup Week in the borough. Employees of the borough will assist by picking up any discarded refuse or other material.

He also proclaimed June 20 as Little League Baseball Tag Day in Bangor.

Council authorized the relocation of approximately 49 parking meters presently in operation in the borough and the purchase of 30 additional meters at a cost of $62.50 each.

Borough Solicitor J. Lawrence Davis notified council that Attorney Edmund Turtzo, representing the Bangor Chamber of Commerce, had withdrawn the petition of that body in the Northampton County Courts to reduce the number of members on the Bangor Borough Council.

Benjamin Albert was elected fire chief and Russell Brown as assistant chief — as recommended by three fire company conferees.

A letter complimenting Kenneth Ace, vice president of the State Belt Industrial Corp., for his work in securing the Heyer Corp. as a new industry in the area was ordered sent by council.

James Houck, borough CD director, appeared before council and requested additional funds. The Commonwealth Telephone Co. was given permission to make underground installation of cable in the borough necessary for the operation of the new dial telephone system that will go into operation in December.

Batteries: Semproch and Lopata, Philadelphia; Drysdale, Collum (3), Sherry (6), Erskine (9) and Walker, Los Angeles. Home Runs — Hamner, Lopata, Furillo.

County In Telephone History

Dialing System Starts Next Year

TELEPHONE subscribers in the Stroudsburgs will be among the very first in the entire country to be served by direct dialing on out-of-town calls. New two-letter, five-figure numbers beginning with the central office name Hamilton will become effective for all local telephones on June 21, 1959, it was revealed yesterday by Budd Van Horn, local manager of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

"The new central office building currently under construction in Stroudsburg will be one of several in the United States providing direct dialing of out-of-town calls by customers," Van Horn said.

"When the new office goes into operation, Stroudsburg customers with individual and two-party service will be able to dial station-to-station long distance calls to many telephones in nearby communities and also across the country.

"Automatic message accounting equipment located in the Stroudsburg central office will tabulate information necessary for speedy and accurate billing of these calls," according to Van Horn. "Ultimately, it is expected that telephone customers will be able to dial calls direct to any point in the country."

This will come, he explained, when all other exchanges adopt the two-letter, five-figure numbering system.

Estimated cost of the project which will bring the latest in telephone equipment and service to Stroudsburg and nearby communities totals approximately $2,105,000, the manager said.

"The new numbering system and use of a uniform list of central office names throughout the United States is a necessary part of this long-range plan," said the manager. "Community identification is not lost under this plan because, for example, a person calling Stroudsburg from a distant city will still tell the operator, unless he is dialing direct, that he wants Stroudsburg, Pa., Hamilton 1-1052."

When the new numbering plan is placed in operation and the new two-letter, five-figure numbers become effective, local calls will be made by dialing the first letters of the central office name and the five figures of the desired number as listed in the special directory supplement to be delivered before the change.

"Advance notice of the coming change in numbers is given at this time for the convenience of customers who must place orders in advance for stationery and other materials showing telephone numbers," Van Horn explained. The new numbers will be assigned approximately three months before the date of the change, he said.

Names have been chosen for all exchanges in this area. In addition to Hamilton, the name assigned to the Stroudsburg central office, the following names have been selected: Luthers, Bushkill; Lyndhurst, Cresco; Terman, Mount Pocono; Twin Oaks, the name to be given the new exchange at Tobyhanna; and Grover, Delaware Water Gap.

A number of area communities where the dial equipment is already operating now use the two-letter, five-figure system.

Nationwide Alert Today

SCHOOL CHILDREN and the general public will participate in "Operation 1958 Alert," a nationwide Civil Defense test, between 9 and 11 a. m. today.

This is the fifth national drill to be held since the close of World War II, but the first to take place with all schools in session.

Dr. Richard Gerstell, state CD director, said that, for this reason, special emphasis will be placed on school self-protection measures.

First indications of the start of the drill will be a long steady "Alert" signal. Blowing of the signal will be followed by radio and television broadcasts to the effect that a simulated air raid warning has been received and enemy bombers theoretically are approaching Pennsylvania from the north.

The first siren signal will not call for emergency action on the part of the public at large.

An hour or more after the initial warning signal is heard, local sirens, horns and whistles will sound the "take cover" signal. This is a three-minute warning, or warning, signal.

Not only children in school, but all other people also will be required to take cover when the second signal is heard. CD and police will stop street and highway traffic and individuals on sidewalks must seek refuge in nearby buildings.

Persons will be required to remain under cover until the third signal—another long, steady signal—which indicates public participation is over.

Little Rock Gazette Wins Pulitzer Prize

NEW YORK (AP)—Coverage of the explosive integration crisis at Little Rock's Central High School won three separate 1958 Pulitzer Prizes in journalism yesterday.

They went to the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette for meritorious public service; the newspaper's executive editor, Harry S. Ashmore, for editorial writing; and Associated Press correspondent Reiman (Pat) Morin for his eyewitness account of mob violence outside the school Sept. 23.

Morin, a Pulitzer Prize winner in 1951, was one of two winners this year for national reporting. The other was Clark Mollenhoff of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, who was cited for his investigation of labor racketeering.

In the case of the Arkansas Gazette, it marked the first time a newspaper captured the public service award while one of its editors was winning the editorial prize for the same news event. Separate citations lauded the newspaper and its editor for objectivity in the face of mounting public tension.

Fiction Award

The 1958 fiction award went to James Agee's novel, "A Death in the Family." It deals with a Southern family's reaction to the death of a beloved father. It was completed by Agee before his death in 1955.

The annual drama award went to "Look Homeward, Angel," Kettil Frings' adaptation of the late Thomas Wolfe's autobiographical novel.

It was the 41st annual award of prizes established by the late publisher, Joseph Pulitzer. They are made annually by the trustees of Columbia University on recommendation of the Pulitzer Prizes Committee.

The public service Pulitzer award consists of a gold medal. All other journalistic awards carry a $1,000 prize. The art awards are $500 each.

Other press awards included: The Fargo (N.D.) Forum, for local reporting under pressure of edition time in its news and picture coverage of a tornado that struck that city the night of last June 20.

George Beveridge, 36, a reporter for the Washington (D.C.) Evening Star, for local reporting without edition time pressure. He was cited for a series of eight Sunday articles on urban development problems in the nation's capital. The New York Times for international reporting.

Yesterday's Deaths

Victim Of Accident Dies

ON SATURDAY, March 29, traveling down Route 611 just outside Stroudsburg Borough limits Harold Frable's car was involved in an accident.

Also in the accident: a New Jersey car and a local, interborough passenger bus.

Frable, 35, and his wife, Mayme, 29, were taken to General Hospital. They were treated there and admitted. The man had sustained a broken nose, a hip injury, cuts and bruises. His wife had also suffered a hip injury, other minor bruises and cuts.

As the days passed, both seemed to be responding well to treatment. They were confined to their beds in separate wards, however.

Special Visits To help make the hours pass more quickly, nurses at the hospital decided to wheel the man's bed into the nearby women's ward, placing it beside his wife's so that they could visit together.

A little later Frable was sufficiently recovered so that it became possible to move him into the other room on a stretcher and avoid moving the whole bed.

There was something about the couple, one nurse said, during those days. "They're so much better off, talking with each other and just being together."

The days passed more quickly. Last week, there was talk that Mayme Frable might be able to go home soon. Both of them seemed happy about that.

They were "easy patients to be around," always cheerful and almost always ready with a little joke or a quip — just something to break the monotony for the nurses and doctors, going from room to room and passing through the wards.

Perhaps it was for that reason that the nurses were able to notice, almost unconsciously, if Harold Frable wasn't feeling quite up to par.

Yesterday morning, he seemed fine and he was in excellent spirits. A nurse had just left him in the ward. He had been much better off, talking with

'Kiltie' Group To March In Parade

THE SECOND ARMY Pipe and Drum Corps from Fort Meade, Md., will perform in Saturday's Tobyhanna Days parade.

The "Kiltie" group, which will arrive at Tobyhanna Signal Depot Friday night, was organized in May, 1952 as the Fifth Infantry Division Pipe and Drum Corps at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.

Assigned to Camp Pickett, Va., in July, 1953, the Corps became known as the "Pickett Pipers."

Deactivated When Camp Pickett was deactivated in July, 1954, the organization was reassigned to Headquarters Second United States Army at Fort George G. Meade, Md., where it operates as a separate musical unit.

Since that time, the Second Army Pipe and Drum Corps has taken part in hundreds of military and civilian parades and ceremonies.

The members of the Pipe and Drum Corps are outfitted with authentic Scottish pipe equipment and their kilts are the famous Wallace Clan tartan.

Sergeant Rea G. Newhall of Beverly, Mass., is the Drum Major.

Police Await Report On Area Driver

EAST Stroudsburg police said yesterday they are awaiting a report from Harrisburg before deciding whether to take action against a motorist involved in an accident Saturday afternoon.

A police spokesman said a letter asking data on the driving status of George Counterman, 69, of East Stroudsburg, RD 2, has been written to the Bureau of Motor Vehicle Registration.

Suspension Counterman told police his license was suspended for one month about a year ago as the result of another accident and that his license was not returned to him after the suspension period expired.

Police said they want to check whether his license was suspended indefinitely or whether he failed to apply for reinstatement.

Optimism Present After Conference

MOSCOW (AP)— Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Western big three powers in notes yesterday he will carry on pre-summit negotiations with their ambassadors and the exchange of opinion on some questions was not ruled out.

Tension in the preliminary exchanges may be easing.

Diplomats who talked with the American, French and British ambassadors at a British embassy reception a few hours after the three met separately with Gromyko said they noticed a distinct air of optimism.

It was the impression of these sources that the Gromyko note—and perhaps his conversation with the ambassadors—left open a way for a closer understanding on the barriers which thus far have thwarted the formal beginning of diplomatic talks.

Up In Air Gromyko's note left preparations for a summit conference up in the air. But in noting the agreement on preparation for a foreign ministers meeting through talks between himself and each of the ambassadors, the foreign minister said:

"The Soviet government, like the governments of the U.S.A., the U.K. (Britain) and France, considers that the acceptance of such procedure in no way predetermines the composition of the future foreign ministers meeting and summit conference."

The Western powers had rejected the Soviet proposal that representatives of Poland and Czechoslovakia sit in, to balance the Communists numerically with the Westerners. The avowed Soviet aim was to achieve East-West parity.

Gromyko expressed his government's regret at the rejection, saying participation of the Poles and Czechs would undoubtedly help produce positive results.

Soviet Side He said the delay so far is no fault of the Soviet side and that the Soviet government "now expects all the sides to exert the necessary efforts for the earliest accomplishment of this work."

After talking with the Westerners, Gromyko received the Czech and Polish ambassadors to Moscow. The Tass news agency said this was for "an exchange of opinions on a number of questions to be examined on the proposed summit conference."

Kunkletown Trio Hurt In Accident

PALMERTON — Three Kunkletown area persons were injured last night—two of them requiring hospitalization—in a two-car collision five miles east of here, State Police at Lehigh reported.

Admitted to the Palmerton Hospital were Floyd Frantz, 33, of Kunkletown RD 1, who suffered a fractured left arm; and Donald Smith, 37, of Kunkletown RD 1, who suffered a head injury.

Conditions of the two men were not immediately available.

According to investigating Troopers John Warkala and George Wozniak, the accident occurred in Legislative Route 13015 shortly before 9 p. m.

The mishap, they said, involved vehicles owned by Clark W. George, of Kunkletown RD 2, and Smith. Driver of the Smith car, they said, was Ronald E. Prutzman, 17, of Kunkletown RD 1. He was treated at the hospital for a bruise of the left elbow.

Frantz and George were in the same vehicle, troopers said, but it was not immediately determined which of the two men were driving. Troopers said that both men denied operating the car.

The mishap was caused, state police said, when the car owned by George traveled over the center portion of the highway and collided with the oncoming Smith vehicle.

Teachers Refuse School Offer

OLYPHANT (AP)— The Oliphant school board's offer of one month's back pay and top priority of all incoming revenue for teachers' salaries was rejected yesterday by a committee of teachers on official "sick leave" since last Thursday.

The board sought in a special session some avenue of settlement for the problem which has left an estimated 600 students on an unscheduled vacation.

Adventists Launch Series Of Lectures

EVANGELIST William R. Bornstein opened a series of 15 bible lectures in the Seventh-day Adventist auditorium on Sunday night. A near capacity crowd was in attendance.

The speaker used an image depicted in the prophet Daniel's portrayal of the rise and fall of the four-world empires.

Bornstein in the message said many have tried to unite Europe under one dictator either by force or diplomacy and all have failed because of the prophetic words found in Daniel 2:43 "They shall not cleave one to another."

He stated that the next world dictator will not come from the Kremlin, but from heaven when the "Kingdoms of this world become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ," as recorded in Revelation 11:15.

John Doll, tenor and junior student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, rendered Ashford's "My Task" as special music for the occasion. Doll whose home is in Lancaster appeared through the auspices of the Student Christian Assn. of which Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Warren are sponsors. At the present he is a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist choir, the college choir and when at home sings with the United Church of Christ choir.

Organ selections and accompaniment are featured, with Mrs. Bornstein at the console.

Topics

Tonight, Evangelist Bornstein said his topic will be "How Long Does It Take To Be Saved?" which he said will answer many unasked questions. He also will sing "It Took A Miracle" by John W. Peterson.

Tomorrow night the subject "Palestine In Bible Prophecy," of interest to those who are following the political-religious happenings in our world, according to Bornstein.

Children

During the series provision has been made for the care of children in another part of the building. Mrs. L. D. Warren former missionary-teacher has arranged games, stories and recreation for those who bring their children.

Area Woman Wins Event

Her catch taken in the Gulf Stream on the Charter Boat "Welcome" with Captain Jake Bunting at the helm created quite a commotion at the docks to the envy of all others.

Her Cobia weighing 35 pounds topped all others for the weekly citation and remained the record for the entire tournament. An engraved trophy is her reward for the achievement.

Students Receive Copies Of Program Of Studies

STROUD Union High School students yesterday received copies of the Program of Studies in the high school.

Copies of the program were distributed to eighth, ninth, 10th and 11th graders. It outlines the various courses and elective offerings available to them for the 1958-59 school term.

Scheduling will actually take place next week, according to Samuel O. Wells III, assistant principal. On Monday, boys will receive a white schedule card and girls will be given a pink schedule card.

The administration and faculty of the school are strongly recommending that all students be required to take a program containing five major subjects.

This would not include such required subjects as music, art, physical education, home economics and industrial arts in the ninth year.

Scheduling will take place beginning May 13 and continuing through May 16. Once program cards have been filled in, students submit them to specified teachers for final approval.

When the schedule is approved, the student will then take it home for parental approval or disapproval and signature. Students are asked to discuss their schedules with parents during preliminary scheduling so that the final request for a signature does not come as a complete surprise.

The nights of May 14 and 15 are set aside for selected teachers to discuss scheduling with interested parents. Parents are not required to attend the session, if they have already made up their minds or do not wish to discuss possible changes with faculty members.

Completed schedule cards are to be returned to the home-room teachers no later than Tuesday, May 20.

Bus Driver Sentenced To One Year In Jail For Manslaughter

Barry Fined $100, Costs By Court

RAYMOND Joseph Barry of Philadelphia yesterday was sentenced to one year in Monroe County Jail on charges of involuntary manslaughter resulting from the deaths of five college students last year.

Judge Fred W. Davis also fined the defendant $100 and costs.

Barry, who was 34 when convicted last Sept. 24 on the manslaughter count, began serving his sentence yesterday.

A jury of eight men and four women recommended leniency in finding him guilty. He had been free in $3,000 bail pending appeal.

On April 1 of this year, Judge Davis denied Barry's motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

Involuntary
Barry, then a Greyhound bus driver, was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of the five students on Jan. 29, 1957, on Route 115 south of Blackslee.

The victims were Demetrius Speros-Marinos, 19, and McClellan P. Whittenight, 18, both of Bloomsburg; William J. Snyder, 20, Danville; Terry Hawk, 19, Nesquehanna; and Bernard Basci, 21, Berwick.

Students at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, they were returning to school in a car driven by Speros-Marinos when it and the bus collided.

In another case before Judge Davis yesterday, Ralph F. Gerlinger pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and was fined $300.

Death Halts Fight For Recovery

joking with her and another patient.

One of the Gray Ladies came into the ward. She said a smiling hello to Harold and passed on to the bed of another patient. She began to read a letter to the second man.

Choking Gasp
Midway through the letter, the woman in the gray uniform heard a choking gasp from Frable's bed. She turned, saw his convulsed face and ran into the hallway for a doctor.

Miraculously enough, a doctor was just around the corner. But when he got to Harold's bed, the man's heart had already stopped beating.

Oxygen was brought from a station right outside the ward. Nurses and the doctor began to work frantically to revive the patient.

They worked for three-quarters of an hour. And during that time, Frable's chest was opened. A doctor began the steady, methodical massage of the heart which is, in hundreds of cases such as this one, almost a routine, a last effort to manually bring the patient "back to life."

It did not work.

Minutes later, a hesitant, deeply troubled nurse crossed the hallway to Mrs. Frable's bed. Numbly by the sudden sweep of death toward a man who had seemed untouched by it, she fumbled for the right words to say "Your husband is dead."

But there are no "right" words for death. There are only statements of fact in a world that suddenly crumbles like a dream.

Harold C. Frable lived at 840 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg. The official record shows that he died yesterday at 10:20 a. m. in General Hospital of Monroe County.

Last night, after an autopsy had been performed, the exact cause of death had still not been determined.

He was born in Nay Aug, son of William and Bertha Knowles Frable. He had lived in Elmhurst and Moscow before coming to Stroudsburg five years ago.

Truck Driver
Mr. Frable was employed by Courtland Beverage Co., East Stroudsburg. He was a truck driver.

A member of the Methodist faith he was a World War Two veteran and a member of the Eagles, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Central Labor Union.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, and his parents, are four brothers, Willard, Edward, and Theodore, all of Elmhurst and Stanley of Old Forge.

BEAUTIFUL VIEW—Ah yes! Here we are in the beautiful Poconos! Home of the lovely mountains, the sylvan streams, the lyrical meadows wafted by soft Summer breezes, the home of the birds and the bees, the land of promise and opportunity, knocking. Speaking of opportunity (and we never miss one, mind you) knocking, these girls here have a chance to vie for title of Miss Stroudsburg Press Photographer on May 24 at High Point Inn. Just in case you're anxious to pick a winner, we'd suggest you start from left (sitting) and follow through: Jackie Corbett, Florence Gallucci, Beverly Fisher, Agnes Francoe and (standing) Elinor Shutkufski, Joan Reese, Helen Kobeski, Barbara Stahl, Jean Cooper and Norene Doran. Anyone for mountains, sylvan streams, lyrical meadows and the like when these girls are around?

County Commissioners Agree To Seek Legal Clarification Of Properties On Duplicate

COUNTY Commissioners yesterday agreed to seek a legal clarification of what new properties should go on the 1958 tax duplicate.

Chief Assessor George Brands said he wanted to know because he doesn't have the time to do the work himself.

Brands said he was talking about properties "built since last Summer" and occupied before 1958.

He said this type of property added "about $200,000 to the duplicate last year." This year, he said, there are indications that the total would be higher.

Three Steps
Brands told Commissioners at their morning meeting that there are "three ways" to get the properties on the duplicate:

1—Assign his deputy, Robert Stem, to the field and let him do the job;

2—Allow local assessors to prepare the list and do the work or

3—Let school districts and supervisors do it themselves.

Brands said he preferred letting local assessors do it "because most of them already have the information."

He said he wanted to know what should be done as soon as possible because "I'll have to send out appeals notices by June 1 since we've set the appeal hearing date at June 19."

Commission chairman John R. Lesoine said he would confer with Solicitor L. A. Achterman on the deadline for putting new properties on the duplicate.

Why Consider Philadelphia Apart From Rest Of State?

Anyone reading Philadelphia newspapers to the exclusion of all others might easily conclude that the rest of Pennsylvania exists only for the benefit of the so-called "City of Brotherly Love."

Take the case of the Keystone Shortway as one example.

Philadelphia's two largest papers have repeatedly ignored news stories touching on the many advantages which would accrue to the entire state if construction of the Shortway were completed by 1965.

They have seen fit at the same time to print every last statement made by Mayor Richardson Dilworth and others in opposition to the Stroudsburg-Sharon super-freeway. That is slanting the news.

(Both papers speak deplorably of censorship of the press, while at the same time they are leaders in controlling certain news stories).

We have no fault to find with the papers for coming out editorially against the Shortway — that is their prerogative; but we do feel their readers are being denied both sides of the controversy when news stories and letters to the editor which put the Shortway in a favorable light never reach print in either paper. There is nothing objective in that type of news coverage.

Philadelphia's opposition to the Shortway is based (1) on fear that the new road would divert business from Philadelphia and its port to the Port of New York, and (2) on a desire to have the Delaware Expressway built ahead of all other major projects in Pennsylvania, particularly the $300,000,000 Shortway.

The demands being pressed by the Keystone Shortway Assn. would not dash Philadelphia's hopes for construction of the Expressway on a simultaneous basis.

As C. E. Noyes, executive director of the Shortway, explains it: "Our goal for completing the road by 1965 would mean construction of only an average of 41 miles each year from 1958 to 1965." Certainly, this is a modest demand.

Mr. Noyes also said in a letter to the editor of a Philadelphia paper that "the Shortway will benefit Philadelphia tremendously, by giving northern and western areas, who find it difficult to get to Philadelphia, a rapid-transit highway. Thus, a greater community of interest will obtain between your city and many other portions of the state."

(In effect, Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, Democratic candidate for governor, said the same thing when he pointed out that the Shortway will have two important links with Philadelphia and its fast-expanding port facilities, i.e., the Northeast Turnpike Extension and Route 611, also known as the Penn-Can Expressway).

"Factually," Mr. Noyes added in his letter, "from Sharon to Philadelphia (via the Shortway to Pocono Interchange on the Turnpike Extension) the mileage will be about 354 while the distance to New York City from Sharon on the Shortway (and across Route 46 in New Jersey) would be 396 miles.

"Thus, the city of Philadelphia will be at least 42 miles closer to any area along the Shortway route, a decided advantage to your city."

(Is it possible Philadelphia doesn't have salesmen who can sell commerce and trade concerning all the new territory which the Shortway will open up to Philadelphia?)

If the Noyes letter was ever published in the Philadelphia paper, we are sorry to say it escaped our eyes.

It would make good reading today when Mayor Dilworth and members of the Greater Philadelphia Movement meet to organize opposition to speedy construction of the Shortway.

So would Mr. Noyes' statement that the Shortway will not disturb Pennsylvania Turnpike revenue "since it is accurately calculated that all bonds now in circulation can for the most part be retired by about 1965 when we want the Shortway completed."

Or, if Philadelphia area leaders are at all interested in the economy of the entire state, they might like to review a federal-state report of labor market areas which shows a definite concentration of distressed counties across the "Shortway Belt."

Philadelphia can get what it wants — and just as quickly, too — simply by reversing its present attitude toward distant parts of the state and agreeing to cooperate in working out a mutually satisfactory highway program. Only in this way can Pennsylvania take full advantage of the huge outlay of public funds available for road projects.

The Pennsylvania Story

Furman Raps Leader

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Columnist Mason Denison has asked each of the six candidates for Pennsylvania's gubernatorial office to express in his own words "Why" he is in particular should be given the gubernatorial nod over his opponents in the May 26 primary election. In answer to this question the Pennsylvania Story today is written by Lieutenant-Governor Roy E. Furman, independent candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.)

By Roy E. Furman
Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate

Harrisburg—My good friend Mason Denison, one of the more erudite scribes covering the Harrisburg scene has asked me to do a guest column on the political situation in Pennsylvania.

The strange metamorphosis of Governor Leader from homespun country boy to self-knighted lord regent of the Democratic Party has indeed provided Pennsylvanians with one of the most controversial personalities of this or any other decade.

Because I am so unalterably fixed in my dedication to the Democratic Party, and have given 30 years of service to prove it, I have chosen in my candidacy for governor, to challenge the princely condonations of Governor Leader and his parish treatment of the people who represent the grass roots effectiveness of our party.

Under George Leader the Democratic Party has become a giant mirror of his absurd pretensions and this, coming from a man who only four years ago was a York County chicken farmer, has soured the cream for thousands of Democrats who provided the vitality for his colossal success at the polls in 1954.

Popularity Decline
The root causes of the sharp decline in Governor Leader's popularity are many, but I dare say his blind and sterile thinking when he made his ill-starred classified income tax the "cause celebre" of a violent 17-month legislative session, did more to expose him as a man of stubborn negation than any other single factor of his career.

When he campaigned for the governorship in 1954 George Leader gored Republicans with mutilating charges that state government under them had become a political chattering of venal bosses, and he was so carried away by the lulling tones of his own oratory he forgot to lock the door against the same kind of bosses in his own party.

I am not by nature or inclination a warlike and vindictive person but when I take toll of the shocking damage Governor Leader and his kind have wreaked upon the Democratic Party, my resentment cannot be contained by the genteel persuasions of those who themselves are fearful of vicious reprisals if they raise their voices in protest.

It is now a matter of political history that I incurred Governor Leader's burning animosity because I dared to oppose his iniquitous classified income tax; because I opposed the wholesale invasion of Capitol Hill by eggheads and implausible planners responsible for the Governor's cloud-based policies; because I resisted his tendency to go beyond the geographical borders of Pennsylvania for so-called experts in governmental management; and because I challenged his right to mandatorily place under civil service some 10,000 state employees without once considering that it was the prerogative of the General Assembly.

Apparently the thousands of Democrats who supported George Leader for governor in 1954 believe as I do — that there is no place in our party for political tyrants.

They agree with me that George Leader's government by imperial mandate is in direct conflict with the essential principles of the Democratic Party and its destiny.

It was only a question of time until the people would penetrate the hardened outer shell of the man and see him for what he is — a man whose dreary failures as governor are blight upon the fine skin of public sensitivity.

'Stood Up' Again

George Sokolsky Says...

Problem Is Human

Vice President Richard Nixon, in a recent address, said this:

"A normal economic system, just like a normal human body, does not and should not run at full speed all the time. There are times when it must slow down so that needed change can be made and bad habits and faulty practices corrected. If these needed changes are made, the system will be stronger at the end of the corrective period than before it began."

This is probably true, but it is not an answer to any question. When the economy slows down, people are out of work. That means reduced incomes for the family; it means reduced purchases; it means reduced manufactures and unless the situation is handled rapidly and drastically, it can mean a depression of varying depth.

Since 1929, one of the most discussed subjects in all capitalist countries has been how to level out the peaks and valleys of production and employment. Both management and the labor unions have been studying this problem, as well as have economists and sociologists in the universities.

What has generally been regarded as essential in Western thinking has been that prosperity should not be dependent upon war or upon the preparation for war. Such a prosperity is profligate, inflationary and harmful in its social implications.

It must be admitted that the United States has not solved the problem of peaks and valleys in the economy. The 1958 Recession, as it is called, presents an unfortunate picture of unemployment and of a buyer's avoidance of postponable commodities.

The situation will not readily be explained away. Nor is it sound public relations for a government to say how deep a depression will or will not be. Nobody can prognosticate what is likely to happen unless steps are taken to alter existing conditions.

Tax Reduction
The most immediate step is a reduction in income taxes. Such measures as a heavy works program may show some beneficial results in 1960 or 1961; they will not produce much in 1958 or 1959.

This is a problem not in politics or semantics but in human relations. Great depressions have occurred in both Democratic and Republican Administrations and there have been some lesser depressions during the Administrations of either party.

The wheel of the economy turns faster or slower with little regard to politics or to whims of politicians.

It is too early to analyze this depression to discover its causes or its course, and although a great many professional wise men will be issuing statements from day to day, what they say is not of the slightest significance because they are only guessing. It often takes decades to discover why at a particular moment families that spent their money freely suddenly stopped spending freely.

For instance, the American automobile has been rising in price for decades. Its durability changed after World War II. It became a more showy car and many customers have for years been complaining that comfort and durability were being sacrificed for styling. Nevertheless, the American public bought automobiles as they could afford to buy them.

In 1957, they bought fewer automobiles and conditions in that industry became depressed. In 1958, the public continued to postpone buying automobiles. Why? Why at that particular moment? Why did the consumer suddenly decide that whereas the car looked larger, he was less comfortable? Why did he suddenly decide that he was being gyped by gadgets of which a year or two earlier he was proud? Why did the inflationary price factor suddenly loom so large, when, as a matter of fact, prices had been increasingly going up?

Is there a point beyond which the public subconsciously feels that it is not getting its money's worth even in a country where swank is so important?

These are human, psychological questions that will need to be answered if this depression is to be explained. Certain other phases are more profound. For instance, many American products are not only outpriced in world markets but our government supports foreign imports into this country to the detriment of American workers and manufacturers. This is a consequence of the Hull Reciprocity Treaties, of GATT, and of other engagements upon which we have entered.

Can we afford, in pursuit of foreign commitments, to keep our people out of work? Even if it is politically advisable, is it not socially dangerous?

Robert S. Allen Reports...

New Debt Hike Sought

Washington — Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson is getting ready to ask for another increase in the national debt — possibly as much as $15 billion. There has already been one hike this year. In March, at his urgent request, Congress voted to raise the debt ceiling by $5 billion for one year, for an overall total of $280 billion.

Now Anderson is sounding out leaders of the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles such legislation, on a second boost of from $10 to $15 billion.

He is indicating this will be officially proposed within a month. Two reasons are being given by Anderson for this contemplated extraordinary action: (1) Greatly enlarged government spending, primarily for defense purposes; (2) declining tax revenues.

On the former, total expenditures as of April 30 of the current fiscal year are around $3.5 billion more than for the same period last year—$67.684 billion as against $64.191 billion. At the same time, federal income has failed to come up to expectations by several hundred million dollars.

As a result of these two factors, a deficit of $3.2 billion at the end of this fiscal year (June 30) is being estimated by Anderson in private talks with congressional leaders.

Asked the deficit outlook for next fiscal year, the Treasury chief gloomily replied, "Depending on developments, it will probably be from $6 billion to $15 billion." At present, the national debt is upwards of $276 billion. But during the remainder of this calendar year, Anderson anticipates it will be necessary for the government to borrow from $8 to $12 billion.

Preparations already are underway, he is telling congressional leaders, to seek $4 billion in August and September.

Highest point so far reached by the national debt was $280.8 billion in December 1955. Next highest peak was $279.2 billion in February 1946. The debt was $267 billion in January 1953, when President Eisenhower took office.

Annual interest charge on the national debt is now $7.8 billion. That compares to $6.8 billion in January 1957, and $4.7 billion in January 1946, when the debt reached a then-record high of $279.2 billion.

On The Way — The House Interstate Commerce Committee will shortly report out a new fair trade bill "with teeth."

Sponsored by Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.), chairman, this far-reaching measure has powerful backing both in and outside of the Committee. Although under consideration for some time, the legislation has gone virtually unnoticed.

But Harris is privately predicting it will be acted on by the full House in time to allow the Senate to vote on it before the end of this session. Foremost among the backers of Harris' bill is the National Association of Retail Druggists. It is vigorously bombarding Congress with pleas for support of the measure. J. W. Dargavel, Chicago, executive secretary of the Association, who is directing this drive, is also flatly refusing claims the legislation won't be passed by Congress.

In an April 15 letter to state and local Association officials, Dargavel wrote, "Despite reports to the contrary, this bill has an excellent chance to be enacted."

They are also urged by him to "bring about a flood of letters and telegrams to members of the Committee and the House to expedite action... Intensive organized effort is necessary to mobilize support to maximum strength."

These Druggist Association leaders are also advised by Dargavel to exert themselves in "still another way."

"I urge you to keep in mind," he wrote, "that there are many persons in every district who are either intimate friends or acquaintances of the representatives from those districts. They in particular should be asked to help in the campaign for the enactment of this fair trade legislation."

"The referred to persons are in a position to contribute valuable assistance. The representative of the district they live in will give serious thought to arguments / they present in support of fair trade. You know how you respond to individuals you count as intimate friends and acquaintances. It will be the same with members of Congress."

However, while hundreds of letters and telegrams are being received by the lawmakers, not all are along the line urged by Dargavel.

Representative James Patterson (R., Conn.) received a telegram from a Waterbury druggist flatly denying he had wired the legislator in behalf of the measure. Patterson had queried this constituent regarding a telegram purportedly signed by him.

In reply he wired Patterson, "In reference to your inquiry, this is to advise you that I was not the party that sent you that wire regarding the fair trade bill."

Patterson is seeking an investigation of this matter. Purpose of the Harris bill is to counter court decisions outlawing fair trade laws. The Federal Trade Commission is opposing the measure on the ground it would "tend to fix prices and keep them high at a time when prices should be reduced."

by Anderson for this contemplated extraordinary action: (1) Greatly enlarged government spending, primarily for defense purposes; (2) declining tax revenues.

On the former, total expenditures as of April 30 of the current fiscal year are around $3.5 billion more than for the same period last year—$67.684 billion as against $64.191 billion. At the same time, federal income has failed to come up to expectations by several hundred million dollars.

As a result of these two factors, a deficit of $3.2 billion at the end of this fiscal year (June 30) is being estimated by Anderson in private talks with congressional leaders.

Asked the deficit outlook for next fiscal year, the Treasury chief gloomily replied, "Depending on developments, it will probably be from $6 billion to $15 billion." At present, the national debt is upwards of $276 billion. But during the remainder of this calendar year, Anderson anticipates it will be necessary for the government to borrow from $8 to $12 billion.

Preparations already are underway, he is telling congressional leaders, to seek $4 billion in August and September.

Highest point so far reached by the national debt was $280.8 billion in December 1955. Next highest peak was $279.2 billion in February 1946. The debt was $267 billion in January 1953, when President Eisenhower took office.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Sometime when I wasn't looking, the leaves got big enough to be functional. After all the Springs I have lived through you'd think I'd get over being surprised about such a simple fact but it always comes with a little shock.

At one moment leaves are nothing but a green haze—or pink—or apricot—depending on the type of tree, on the landscape. It is only because you are looking so hard for the first signs of Spring that you are aware of that haze, which is really composed more of a dream of leaves than of leaves themselves.

But no matter how closely you watch, there comes a moment when, between one trip to the window and the next, the leaves unfold, take on their characteristic shape and pattern—and there you are. The trick, which I have never mastered, is to catch them at it.

Every year I discover it a new way. This year it was the fact that on the sidewalk, darkened by the misty rain, there were circles of dry pavement, and looking up, I found the leaves big enough to make an umbrella.

In other years, it has been the shadows of the leaves, sharp in the sunlight, or a sudden, other-worldly shade of green against the street lights, which has made me aware of it.

Some year, I'm going to get a comfortable chair, park it by a suitable tree, and come down or come dusk, come rain or come shine, just sit there and watch. It must be quite a sight: all the leaves, like so many butterflies emerging from their cocoons, suddenly unfurling themselves and stretching out the crinkles.

All right, you botanist, disillusion me and tell me it doesn't happen that way at all. But I don't see how else I could have missed it during all these many

Alternative Skill Adds To Your Peace Of Mind

By Anne Heywood

It seems to me that one of the big secrets in life is to have—or think we have—an alternative. Problems are impossible only as long as we see no earthly alternative.

Many a housewife, struggling to raise four or five children on her husband's limited budget and not enough insurance, has agonized over what would happen if her husband were to be taken sick for any length of time. We know that by the law of averages this is not apt to happen, but the worry she has over it is frequently immense.

Has A Salable Skill

The mere knowing that she has an immediately salable skill—for example, shorthand and typing—would give her a feeling of having an alternative to starvation and would give her greater peace of mind.

The same thing is true of businessmen and career women. The knowledge that you have another string to your bow, that there is another skill which you could sell in the business market if the bottom fell out of your present field, can be a great source of relief and comfort.

Comforting Fact

I remember in my years as an employment interviewer, and earlier, as an advertising copywriter, I used to take great comfort in the fact that I still had good workable shorthand and typing and could, if anything happened to either of the other fields, get a stenographic job.

Most of us can, without too much difficulty, manage to achieve this second skill and, in an uncertain economic world, it is a very wise thing to do.

The factory worker who is also a good cook, the commercial artist who can also drive a truck, the housewife who is also an excellent typist, the receptionist who can also do expert sewing—these people have a kind of emotional social security.

Here are some pointers on how to achieve this kind of security:

Woman's Club Gives $200 To Home For The Aged

The Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs will give $200 to the Monroe County Home for the Aged, it was decided yesterday at the board meeting held at the Stroud Community House. The Home for the Aged, now being prepared for occupancy, is the former Stroudsburg Hotel on West Main St., in Stroudsburg.

It is the major welfare project of the year for the Stroudsburg Woman's Club. The Monroe County Home Assn. of which Ernest H. Wyckoff is president, got its original impetus from the Business and Professional Woman's Club which has been working for about ten years to make possible low-priced housing for people over 65 who are neither bed-ridden nor yet able to live entirely alone.

Other organizations have contributed to the fund for the purchase of the hotel which cost $37,000. One third of the cost has been raised, and other funds have been obtained from individuals to make necessary changes.

Mrs. Samuel O. Wells, president of the Woman's Club, thanked the members for their part in the Monroe County Federation meeting in April. She named Mrs. J. Stewart Swartley, Mrs. William D. Hawn and Mrs. Walter J. Werkheiser to the auditing committee.

Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Edward Hess will be club delegates to the state convention to be held at Harrisburg June 10, 11, 12, and 13. Mrs. William Hannas and Mrs. Robert Miller are alternates.

A call for volunteers and contributions for the Carnival for the patients at the Allentown State Hospital on July 1 was issued. Volunteers willing to serve in the booths were asked to call Mrs. Harold Pond. Those who wish to contribute jewelry, aprons, combs, flannel polish, talcum, key chains or ball point pens were asked to call Mrs. Arthur Henning.

Mrs. Hannas reported that at the Well-Baby Clinic there had been 11 new babies and 16 returned and thanked the members who served in the clinic.

Present for the board meeting were Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Joseph Yutz, Mrs. T. Manning Curtis, Mrs. James Canfield Jr., Mrs. J. Frank Grimm, Mrs. Hannas, Mrs. Irving Kiffin, Mrs. E. L. Travis, Mrs. Claude Leister, Mrs. B. I. Fansler, Mrs. M. S. Baldwin, Mrs. Alford Meyers, Mrs. Henry Hebele, Mrs. Edgar Van Why, Mrs. Charles Park and Mrs. Grant Nitrauer.

S-burg Nine Duels Palmerton, Eastburg Tilts With Coplay

Rain Threat Poses Game Postponement

STROUDSBURG HIGH will meet Palmerton under the lights at Giffel's Field here tonight and East Stroudsburg will engage Coplay at the latter's diamond this afternoon in league contests.

Mountaineer Coach Jerry Stulgaitis last night reported that yesterday's inclement weather threatened the local dual. Rain predictions for today would probably clinch it, he added.

Strodsburg will meet Palmerton tomorrow afternoon should the game be postponed, the coach said. Currently, the local squad holds a 2-2 log in the Lehigh Valley League.

Cavaliers, who on Friday battled into a 10-inning tilt and lost 3-2, will go against the Coplay line-up with a 0-4 record in the Lehigh-Northampton League. Coplay's tied with four other teams for third place in the league with a 3-2 tally.

Race Car Just Misses Fangio

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A speeding race car spun out of control and narrowly missed hitting world champion Juan Manuel Fangio Sunday in the first close call of the year at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Fangio was taking his driver's test in the Dayton Steel Foundry Special when Ray Crawford of El Monte, Calif., came roaring around the northeast turn at 135 m.p.h. and whipped around in a complete circle that missed the Argentine's car by about two feet.

Crawford, who drives his own car, managed to regain control and pulled off the track after completing the lap.

"It's my fault," said Fangio, who was moving at about 115 m.p.h. when Crawford came past. He said he should not have been in the middle of the track when the California driver approached.

However, Crawford took full blame for the mishap, explaining he came into the turn too high.

Softball Rained Out

TWO Monroe Softball League games and an Industrial Softball League duel were rained out yesterday. Postponed were: Engine Diehl's vs. Dunn's-Courtland at Strodsburg playground; Del Campo's vs. Bessecker's at the East Stroudsburg playground; and Ronson vs. Shaw Insulators at Kulps.

Pittsburgh Wins 11-10

Giants Nine-Run Rally Fails To Sink Pirates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants pummeled four pitchers for nine runs in a wild ninth inning yesterday but the rally was a run short as the Pittsburgh Pirates won 11-10 and gained a share of the National League lead with Chicago.

The smallest crowd of the season, 5,506, saw the most thrilling game here since major league ball came to the West Coast April 15.

The Pirates, getting their 9th victory in 11 games, scored three runs in their half of the ninth on four hits including a home run by Frank Thomas. Vern Law had clear sailing at that time and went into the bottom of the 9th with an 11-1 lead.

In the hectic Giants' ninth, the San Francisco tied a National League record with three pinch hits in one inning. It had been done eight times before, but was between the same teams. That was in a night game July 5, 1957, in the sixth inning. The major league record is four.

Pinch hitters Jim King, Johnny Antonelli and Bob Speake crashed consecutive doubles to bring in five runs. Errors by third baseman Thomas and shortstop Dick Groat, kept the rally alive.

It was Groat's bobbie of pinch hitter Jim Finigan's grounder that loaded the bases with two outs. Don Tausig hit for Antonelli, up for the second time in the inning, and popped to Bill Mazeroski to end the game. Ray Jablonski and Orlando Cepeda homered in the wild ninth.

Homer Gives Polk 2-0 Win Over Pocono

KRESGEVILLE — A Polk High home run blast with a man aboard yesterday eased the scholastic nine past Pocono High with a 2-0 win in a seven inning contest battled all the way from the mound.

It was the opener in the Monroe County League for both teams.

The four-bag belt came in the bottom of the fourth when Polk's catcher Meekes stepped to the plate. Already aboard was L. Berger, the shortstop, who had singled.

The single by Berger had been followed by a balk by Pocono pitcher Paul Frailey, and the infielder had advanced to second. A wild pitch had sent him scurrying into third. With that, the catcher labeled the full circuit drive.

Both teams went scoreless until the homer put Polk High out in front with the slim pair. Neither team crossed the plate thereafter.

Frailey collected 10 strikeouts, while the winning pitcher, Kresge, tallied seven.

Four Run Rally Sweeps Bosox Over Indians, 8-5

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox made it seven victories in 11 home games yesterday in thumping the Cleveland Indians 8-5 before 2,387 hardy souls who braved the dampness and 46-degree temperature.

The Sox put the game out of the Indians' reach in the sixth inning when they batted around for their final four runs.

The victory was credited to rookie southpaw Bob (Riverboat) Smith although he was helped over the final inning and two-thirds by Frank Sullivan, a right hander.

The Sox now have two victories in as many days from left handers, a total with which they had to be satisfied for the complete 1957 season against southpaws.

Ray Narleski, the first of four Indian pitchers, was charged with the loss. His record now is 3-2.

Smith fanned four and walked only two in this, his first major league start.

He gained his odd nickname from baseball writers on the West Coast while pitching for San Francisco, then a PCL club. He was pictured as crafty as a riverboat gambler.

The announcement was made yesterday by Joe Dey, executive director of the U. S. Golf Assn.

Harvie thus becomes eligible to try for his third National Amateur crown at the Olympic Club in San Francisco, his home town, Sept. 8-13.

In San Francisco, Ward said his reinstatement made him "very happy" and that he would start getting his game in shape for the National Amateur.

"I'm afraid I kind of let my game go to pot," he said. "But this makes me feel a lot better. I'm going to bear down on my game to get ready for the next national."

Ward's return to the national stage was the subject of a feature in the National Amateur.

Daily Record Survey

Criticism Dominates Major Fields

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of articles on Monroe County education. Each will be based on the results of the county-wide survey conducted by the author for the Daily Record.

By Leonard Randolph
TEACHER education, State allocations and the tenure law are major fields for criticism in answers given by school board officials and Parent-Teachers Assn. groups.

The final question in the survey asks: "How can the Department of Public Instruction, the State Council of Education and the legislature play more effective roles in building stronger instruction programs for our schools?"

Among the school board answers the most comprehensive is this one, from a board secretary:

"The State Department should revise or do away with the course of study teachers are required to follow. It isn't challenging enough to teachers and doesn't accomplish as much as most children can assume if properly taught. Increased salary increments are necessary but the legislature should have the people who receive them show some improvement or growth in themselves, like courses, tests, travel etc. They deserve increases, but they must prove worthy.

—The Department of Public Instruction also needs a business manager or someone who pays bills when they are due. This would do much toward raising respect among local districts for the DPI.

This last comment is one of the most forcefully repeated among school directors. During recent years, when State allocations have been slow (often several months behind their due date) local districts have been severely penalized because they had to borrow money then pay interest on the loans.

This practice, an annoyance whenever it occurs, has been the worst blow to good public relations the State DPI has ever suffered. There is little or no faith among local districts, at this time, that the State can be depended upon to make its payments on time. The most controversial and certain to be the most unpopular among teachers' "suggestion" coming out of the Daily Record survey is the insistence of some school board officials on repeal of the tenure law.

But the idea is not alien to classroom teachers, either. Although they are in the minority, some teachers answering the survey have called for abolition of tenure on grounds that it takes away incentive to do peak-level teaching, that it amounts to a kind of perpetual "social security" without retirement and that it is too rigid for the good of the profession.

In their comments on "tenure," some board officials (only presidents and secretaries received the questionnaire) use strong language.

One, for example, refers to it as an "obnoxious law." Another says: "By abolishing the tenure law you would get rid of the poor and lazy teachers and the agitators that are always clamoring for more money. The average pay for local teachers is $4,600 for nine months work."

(Author's Note: The board official is not identified by district and names were not requested on the survey forms when they were returned. However, this does NOT represent an average for Monroe County as a whole. It is possible that in ONE DISTRICT the average MAY BE this high, but in most local schools it is lower.)

The law to which reference is made in these answers is a source of controversy in many areas—not just Monroe County. Local school directors who have asked their solicitors to study the law have arrived at a conclusion that it offers little or no possibility for legal dismissal of a teacher, they say.

The law regulates termination causes, prescribes a system for rating a teacher for incompetency and lists causes for suspension.

Monroe County Salary Board Sets Scale For Civil Defense Headquarters Chief

MONROE COUNTY Salary Board yesterday set the salary of Mrs. Catherine Miller, Civil Defense headquarters administrator, at $65 per week.

The new salary does not amount to a "raise in pay" for Mrs. Miller. She has been given additional duties far beyond those for which she was originally hired.

In presenting the case for an increase in salary for Mrs. Miller, Judge Fred W. Davis and Marshall Reese, CD director, noted that, in effect "she is now doing two jobs instead of one."

Originally, Mrs. Miller was hired as an office secretary. At that time she was a clerical assistant to Judge Davis, then CD chief, who served without pay and Paul Crawn, assistant director, who received $30 weekly.

Mrs. Miller's original salary was $50 weekly. She has never been given a raise. She came to the post in August, 1955.

When Crawn resigned three months ago, members of the newly-appointed CD Council, decided to leave his position vacant and make Mrs. Miller headquarters administrator.

She, therefore, continued her initial duties and took over all those formerly performed by Crawn. Removal of Crawn's post from the CD setup resulted in a savings of $30 weekly to the County.

When Mrs. Miller's salary was increased, yesterday, therefore, the County was providing a new salary scale for a new position and not allowing her a direct raise.

Reese, in his comments to the salary board, pointed out that "Mrs. Miller has been an extremely alert and valuable CD administrator. Through watching for funds available from Federal CD and through economical purchasing, she has saved Monroe County CD a great deal of money."

Greentown Scout Master Earns Award

NEWFOUNDLAND — The coveted Silver Beaver award, highest honor for volunteers in the scouting movement, was presented to Scoutmaster Richard McLain, Greentown, leader of Troop 129.

The presentation was made during the seventh annual Appreciation Dinner at the Masonic Temple Ballroom, Scranton.

The award is given by the National Council, BSA, upon the recommendation of the council served by the scoutmaster, to men who have performed distinguished service to boyhood.

Scoutmaster McLain, whose name is synonymous with scouting here, has led hundreds of boys in the area for the past 20 years.

His leadership in an outstanding scouting and explorer program began in 1937, when he became assistant scoutmaster of Troop One (now Troop 129). He became scoutmaster in 1938 and has served in that capacity up until the present time.

Extension Chairman

In 1953, he became organization and extension chairman of the Minisink District and is now serving in that post. He led the Council Philmont Expedition in 1955, and last year was scoutmaster of a National Jamboree troop and coordinator of the activities of three National Jamboree troops.

During his scouting tenure, he has been an active leader in all community, district and council events. He has accompanied his troop to Goose Pond Scout Reservation each year for Summer camp.

McLain is sixth grade instructor and assistant principal at Greene - Dreher - Sterling Joint School.

Canadian Boy Runs Out Of Funds In Stroudsburg

AN 11-YEAR-OLD Canadian boy, enroute to New York City, was returned to Wilkes-Barre from Stroudsburg yesterday.

Borough police took him into custody at 1:35 a. m. Sunday as he left a bus from Wilkes-Barre. He had only 13 cents in his pocket at the time.

Bus Driver

The bus driver told police the boy asked to take him on a tour of the area to New York, but only had enough to reach Stroudsburg.

The boy at first claimed he lived here but later said he is the son of a Canadian doctor who was enrolled Saturday at the Children's Service Center School at Wilkes-Barre.

Asked whether it wouldn't have been better to wait for his father to take him on a tour of New York's sights, the boy replied: "Dad works all the time. He never has the time."

Strauser Demonstrates Painting

STERLING Strauser, nationally-known East Stroudsburg artist gave a demonstration of painting for members of the Pocono Mountains Art Group at its most recent meeting.

Strauser painted a vase and bouquet on a large masonite board in less than an hour. He explained each step as he progressed with the picture.

Comments
His comments on painting were enlivened by humorous asides and a discussion of artists' materials during which he explained that it is not necessary to use expensive tools.

As part of the demonstration, Strauser used a 10-cent brush for portions of the painting and, in one part of the picture used his hands.

The Art Group meets again tonight at 7 at Stroud Union High School building on W. Main St. Color slides will be shown after the sketching class, at about 8:30 p.m.
